Dear Selection Committee;

I understand Michael Schricker is applying to your program. As his former academic instructor, I suggest you get him while you can! Prior to entering my senior capstone class, his previous instructor pulled me aside and suggested I make him a team leader for our National Student Advertising Competition campaign ... Michael led our campaign to place first in our region, and top 20 in the country.

Michael is an extremely driven and independent learner. In need of graphics to drive our campaign message, he taught himself how to edit video and images and produced professional grade material.

Since his undergrad days he's gone on to produce professional marketing and communication materials for Disney resorts and Ocean Joy Cruises where he supervises and manages a team of photographers.

His current, past employers and professors all agree – Michael Schricker is a self-starter capable of producing what ever you expect – and then some. He goes above and beyond to meet whatever challenge presented to him.

Three years after he wowed me, I still count him among my very best students. I feel so fortunate to have had him in our program, I have no doubt you will feel the same.

Respectfully,

Katie Clarke
